Creates a permanent public record of your new name. In India, your name change application is submitted to the concerned government printing department, commonly called the Government Printing Press – Gazette of India. Different departments like Aadhaar, PAN, Passport, banks, education boards and other authorities rely on this Gazette notification as confirmation that your name has been changed under the law. Because of this, one correctly done Gazette process can solve name mismatch issues in multiple documents at the same time. Once the Gazette process is done, most boards and universities allow corrections according to their rules. Real-Life Experiences and Common Mistakes in Name Change Every year, a lot of people in Kerala try to change or correct their name, but many of them face delays only because of small and avoidable mistakes. A few simple examples will help you understand this better. Some people prepare the affidavit but forget to mention their full address or write the reason for name change clearly. Later, when the file reaches the department, officers ask for clarification and the process gets delayed. In some cases, the spelling in the affidavit, newspaper ad and ID proof does not match exactly, so the application is put on hold. There are also people who publish the advertisement in only one newspaper or use a very casual format that does not include details like father's name, age or affidavit date. Even if the ad gets printed, it does not fulfil the legal requirement, and they have to repeat the whole step and pay again for another ad. To avoid such issues, keep these common mistakes in mind: Not matching spellings exactly in affidavit, newspaper and ID proofs Missing important details in the affidavit such as date of birth, full address or father's/husband's name Publishing the ad in only one newspaper or choosing a very small/local paper that is not commonly accepted Sending incomplete document sets to the Gazette office (for example, forgetting the CD, missing signatures or not attaching the DD) Not keeping extra copies of newspapers and affidavits for school, passport office or bank updates later When all steps are done correctly in one attempt, the overall process becomes much smoother. A properly drafted affidavit, correct newspaper ads and a complete Gazette file can save you weeks or even months of follow-up and rework. Online vs Offline Gazette Name Change Process in Kerala In Kerala, name change can be done through both online-supported and offline/manual methods. The basic steps (affidavit, newspaper ad, Gazette) remain common, but the mode of submission and convenience differ. Factor Online Name Change in Kerala Offline Name Change in Kerala Convenience Submit forms and documents from home with online/remote support May have to visit offices or send documents physically Speed Usually faster (around 30–45 days when filed correctly) Can be slower due to manual handling or repeated visits Error Chances Lower, when guided by experienced professionals Higher, if you are doing everything alone without guidance Cost Generally reasonable with minimal extra service fees Extra travel and time cost, plus any professional charges Recommendation: In most cases, using an online or guided process is better. It saves time, reduces mistakes and can be managed from home, especially if you are in a job or busy with studies. Rules and Limitations in Legal Name Change Although the Indian Constitution allows citizens to choose or change their name, there are some clear restrictions: You cannot change your name only to hide your identity or run away from your past. You cannot change your name just to avoid repayment of loans, legal action or liabilities. You cannot choose a name that is obscene, abusive or offensive. Using too many symbols or unnecessary punctuation marks in names is generally not permitted. If the authorities feel that the name change request is linked with fraud or misuse, they may reject the application.
